Map of Namibia and you travel routing

Map for location of Parks in Namibia

General information:

The following information points are things that you need to know. They are in no particular order and are things that we have picked up over many years of experience and practiced, for tomorrow.....

- Namibia and the areas that you will be visiting on your excursion is mostly malaria free area, however Etosha National Park has occasionally had outbreaks of malaria. You have to consult with your GP as to prescription medicine and precautions.
- Please pack sensibly, one medium size soft bag and one hand luggage / camera bag, per person. On domestic flights you are allowed 20kg max of luggage per person. It is for yours and other traveller's safety that there are limitations.
- Always carry passports, visas, flight tickets and money on your person.
- When leaving any place of accommodation or airport make sure that your luggage is on board. It is your responsibility.
- Water is a valuable asset in Africa and we have to preserve and consume responsibly, for tomorrow....
- When on safari always be aware of the fact that you sometimes will be in wilderness areas and wild animals stray around. Please obey all park instructions.
- Travelling conditions in the parks vary from good to daring at some places depending on the levels of water and natural conditions. Because we are exposed to nature things does not necessarily always go according to plan. But it is for that specific reason that you have chosen to join such an excursion, so you can tell the tale, for tomorrow.....
- You have to make a paradigm shift in your head for your safari. This is your experience and in order to get the most out of it you have to be considerate, thankful, caring and above all appreciative, for tomorrow.....
- Nobody is ever above the law and especially so in nature so please always obey instructions. They are there to protect you, make it pleasant for your fellow travellers and assure that other people can come back tomorrow.....
- As a safari company operating in Africa we are obliged to sustainable tourism. The impact of our footprints that we as human beings, have left on the face of this earth is in the news every day. We have to lessen this impact as much as we can, if we want to leave anything for tomorrow..... Please make vital decisions between necessities and luxuries. Being in nature is a privilege not a right; see your experience as a contribution for tomorrow.....
- Please don't give money to beggars and children. It serves no purpose.

Weather conditions and clothes:

- For the time of the year that your safari is taking place the temperatures varies from 10-25 °C.
- One warm jacket would be sufficient. No official evening wear is required at any of the places of accommodation.
- Comfortable shoes, sun hat, sun block and a positive attitude go a long way.

Driving in Namibia:

The roads within Namibia are first class by African standards with nearly 4500 kilometres of good tarred roads and an extensive network of district gravel roads. Driving is done on the left-hand side of the road with the speed limit being 120km per hour on major and minor routes outside of city limits and 60km per hour within city limits. It is highly recommended that a maximum speed of 80km per hour NOT be exceeded when travelling on ANY gravel or sand roads. The wearing of seat belts is compulsory for all vehicle occupants.

Wildlife wandering on roads is a special driving hazard in Namibia, especially at night. An encounter at high speeds with antelope or cattle can be fatal. The salt-surfaced roads at the coast can also be deceptively dangerous, especially when they have been made slick by morning or evening mist. Most major roads are undivided with one lane in each direction. Drivers should remain alert for passing vehicles and exercise caution when passing slow moving vehicles.

Driving under the influence of alcohol is illegal in Namibia. A charge of culpable homicide may be made against a driver involved in an accident resulting in death. Flashing of high beams and similar signals could mean anything from a friendly greeting to a warning. When encountering a motorcade, motorists are encouraged to make way immediately and follow promptly any instructions given by the officials present.

Roadside assistance and emergency medical services outside of Windhoek may be unreliable or non-existent. Assistance on main roads that link Namibia's larger towns, however, is generally good due to quality cell phone networks. Emergency services contact numbers vary from town to town. The Namibian telephone directory has a list of emergency contact numbers at the beginning of each town listing.

Driving On Gravel Or Sand Roads

Although the main routes in Namibia are tarred, more often than not one's travel plans will lead one to travel on a gravel or sand road. This is especially true for guests driving to Sossusvlei Lodge as all roads leading to Sesriem are gravel surfaced.

These types of roads are usually well maintained, but sometimes one encounters heavily corrugated stretches. The unpleasant, 5 to 10cm deep grooves develop through too fast driving. The vehicles and their passengers are thoroughly shaken up on corrugated roads. It becomes supportable, if one virtually "flies" over these stretches by driving relatively speedily so that the wheels don't have to dip into each groove deepening. The optimal speed is usually about 80km per hour.

Each year car rental companies in Namibia register numerous accidents, usually with vehicles being rolled over. Inexperienced drivers get too far to the margin of the gravel roads that are usually slightly vaulted in the middle. When the driver then pulls the steering wheel around abruptly, the accident occurs. In particular, light four-wheel-drives react to such driving mistakes by rolling around the longitudinal axis and the vehicle turns over.

Drivers should reduce speed significantly for curves or turns and should heed all warning signs. Hitting a sand patch or driving around a curve too fast can easily result in a rollover or spinout. Many accidents on gravel roads occur when tourists exceed safe speeds on corners or in areas recently damaged by rains.

There is only one way to avoid this: PLEASE DRIVE SLOWLY!

There is a great deal of beautiful scenery and breath-taking views along the way; driving slowly allows one to take it all in...
